

ABSTRACT

The invention provides for the use of an effective amount of silver in the manufacture of a wound dressing comprising an anionic polymer, 5 which dressing, when applied to the wound, gives a controlled release of ionic silver into the wound fluid for the prevention of staining of the underlying tissue.